

Cooperation as a driver for collective ambition

Latin America and Caribbeans countries cooperation

Type of cooperation	Details	Results
Knowledge exchange	There are regional partnerships that enable knowledge exchange between countries, such as: Bilaterals, RCC, DNA Forum	It allows us to understand barriers that others have faced and perspectives that have not been considered, improving implementation and generating security. Examples: -Bilaterals: Peru-Chile, Colombia-Chile -RCC: support to logistical procedural issues
Common understanding about environmental integrity	Pacific Alliance, A6IP	Open discussions on the different interpretations
Infrastructure	Registry Forum	Still early, there is a need for further clarity in the role of national and private registries vs international registry

Cooperation and ambition

We know that Article 6 aims to support the enhancement of ambition, but the question from host countries are becoming more complex as implementation comes in:

01

- How do we comply with the NDC using Article 6, considering the implications of the corresponding adjustment?
- How do we ensure that authorized ITMOs go beyond the NDC?

02

Structural challenges for Article 6 implementation

- Regulatory and governance frameworks
- Technical infrastructure

Cooperation and ambition

03

Strategic and policy challenges

- Integration with NDCs
- Alignment with voluntary markets and CORSIA
- What is the role of additionality?

04

Institutional and capacity challenges

- Reinforcing our Transparency framework ¿How do we ensure compliance?
- Financial constrains, like projects upfront cost and infrastructure
- Difficulties in building trust among public, private, and international actors.

General reflections on implementation

Some of us already have. regulation in place, while others are developing a comprehensive national Article 6 regulation

We are strengthening our institutional readiness, including a roadmap for authorization processes and coordination between different institutions

We are exploring potential pilot activities and checking how to linked it to our NDCs

Thank you

AILAC

Asociación Independiente de Latinoamérica y el Caribe